The Raiders put six players on the first team, three offensive and three defensive. Only Brookville had more with seven of their players named to the first team all-district.

Layne was picked for the quarterback spot on the offensive unit, team-mate Bill Austin was picked for end and David Wheeler was picked at center position. On defense, Guthrie was at tackle, Phillip Goode at linebacker and Nathan Snell, a defensive back, made up the other Raiders on the first team.

Snell and Goode were also picked for the second team offensive unit and joining them as defensive players from the Raider team were Mike Gallier, back, and Wheeler as middle guard. Layne was also picked as the outstanding punter in the district.

Taxpayers Plan State Organization

On Saturday, December 2, at a meeting in Farmville of the organization Independent Virginians for Political Action (IVPA), the first steps were taken in organizing a state taxpayers association, to be known as Virginia Taxpayers Association. Representatives of several taxpayers organizations were in attendance.

Mr. Ken White, IVPA member, led the discussion with the following remarks:

"Virginia taxpayers are going to have a new and stronger voice to speak for them on state and national affairs.

"We believe that only a fully organized, continuously active taxpayer association at the state level can defend the public interest in governmental decisions against myriad of special interest groups that are now dictating public policy.

"We are aware that burden some new tax increases, federal, state, and local, are a virtual certainty unless we act now.

"We propose to help implement and coordinate in Virginia the spontaneous tax revolt that is already under way. This tax revolt has been noted, but is still largely ignored, as far as real action is concerned, by most of the leading politicians today.

"We are not deceived by fake propaganda for so-called 'tax reform'; rather we shall work for genuine spending reform; that is, the reduced government spending in many areas simultaneously that is necessary to prevent total financial disaster in this country.

"Our activity is expected to be educational, in specific as well as in general areas, and we shall help organize local taxpayer groups in cities and counties where none now exists. We hope to encourage vigilance by citizens inspecting all operations of government to the end that wrong-doing and waste will be exposed and eliminated."

The next meeting of the Virginia Taxpayers Association will be held January 6th, 1973, in Farmville, at Hotel Weyonoke, starting 11:00 a.m.

The following persons will constitute the steering committee to adopt a constitution and by-laws and to elect officers and directors:

Miss Louise Almond, Apartment 57, Gresham Court, Richmond; William H. Barrett, Box 56, Carrsville; J. W. Fretwell, 409 2nd Avenue, Farmville; Colonel Paul D. Hollyfield, 233 Park Crest Road, S. W., Roanoke; Robert R. Maniates, 321 College Street, Lynchburg; William G. Martelle, R.F.D. No. 1, Middletown; Mrs. Frank Monte, Church Street, Middletown; Miss Kitty Reynolds, 1233 South Oakcrest Road, Arlington; Sterling Rives, 420 North Park Drive, Petersburg; Francis W. Springer, Box 111B, Schuyler; Ken White, Box 45, R.F.D. No 1, Roseland; and Harley Williams, 3705 Prado, Fairfax. Mr. Williams is retiring president on the one thousand member Fairfax County Taxpayers Alliance which has been in existance for seventeen years.

Attend S.S. 49th Annual Stockholders- Meeting

E. M. Covington of Pamplin represented Southern States Cooperative's members in the Appomattox area at the association's 49th annual stockholders meeting held in Richmond, Virginia, November 14 - 15.

Also attending the session was Dan G. Coleman, manager of Coleman and Sons, Inc. local Southern Retail outlet.

They heard General Manager W. T. Steele, Jr., report to the 1500 delegates, guests and employees who attended the session that the cooperative's total volume for the fiscal year, ended last June 30, hit $152, 700,000, an increase of about $4,273,000 over the previous year.

Steele told the group that net savings for the cooperative reached $4,666,026 about $765, 000 under last year's figure -- after deducting federal and state taxes. Savings were also enough to pay dividends on all stock and a 1.2% patronage refund. In addition, slightly over $769,000 was added to reserves.

The report revealed that feed volume showed a 1.3% decrease ---down about 6,000 tons from last year -- to a total of 347,054 tons.

Fertilizer volume hit 513,000 tons, just under last years 516, 400 tons.

Seed volume stood at 9,700, 000 all-time high, and 12.1% over the previous year.

Farm Supply volume reached $36,000,000, up $1800,000 or 5.3% over last year.

Petroleum showed a total volume of 140,000,000 gallons, an increase of 5,314,000 gallons.

Egg marketing showed an increase of 7.3% in dollar volume and 21.6% in cases handled over last year.

NVATA Convention Delegates

Approximately 500 teachers of Vocational Agriculture, state agriculture supervisors, and teacher educators will attend the National Vocational Agriculture Teachers' Association (NVATA) Convention at Chicago. The 24th Annual Convention (AVA) Convention. The ag educators will also have an opportunity to attend (AVA) special meetings and general sessions.

Several members of the Virginia Vocational Agricultural Teachers' Association will be attending, including Dennis W. Torrence, vocational agriculture teacher at the Appomattox County High School at Appomattox, who will serve as an official delegate at the Annual NVATA business sessions and Regional meetings.

Torrence will also be on the program at the convention discussing a new coordinated vocational academic education program for selected 7th, 8th, and 9th graders at Appomattox. This C. V. A. E. program is in its third year as a pilot project for Virginia.

The NVATA is the professional organization for vocational educators in agriculture. Organized in 1948, it prides itself in attaining approximately 95% of its potential membership annually. Almost 10,000 ag educators belong to the NVATA. Howard Teal of Boonville, New York is the current president and James Wall of Lincoln, Nebraska is the Executive Secretary. The National Headquarters is in Lincoln.

It would seem that when the 1972 General Assembly finally gave Virginia the breath test as the final determination in driving while intoxicated cases and lowered the presumptive level from .15 to .1, we were up with the leading states in this field.
